

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman

Talking is Teaching

Stopping to connect with your child makes your child feel valued and loved. Face-to-face communication between parents and children is important for developing language.

Make up stories using picture books that have no words.

A Ball for Daisy by Chris Raschka
Wonder Bear by Tao Nyeu
Flotsam by David Wiesner
Chalk by Bill Thomson
Rainstorm by Barbara Lehman